The refrigerator recycling program of the Public Service Company of New Mexico, commonly known as PNM, began again today.

PNM hired ARCA Recycling, Inc. to be the new third-party contractor who will manage the program. The process will work basically the same way it did before the program was suspended, because the previous contractors ceased operations suddenly in November 2015. PNM will pay $50 for an old refrigerator or freezer and pick it up for free. The units must be working and must be between 10 cubic feet to 27 cf in size. Dorm-sized refrigerators will not be accepted.

Residential and commercial customers can recycle two refrigerators or freezers per year. Commercial customers may be able to recycle more with approval from PNM.

To participate in the program, visit PNM.com/fridge or call 1-877-838-1139.
